10th May 2019

Dear Parent/Carer

Having reviewed our proposed plans for study leave we have decided to move the start date to Friday 17th May - students will be able to leave at 1.10pm on this day. This means that the final full day in school for all students will be Thursday 16th May.

As part of study leave your son/daughter will not need to attend their independent study sessions, however, they will be expected to attend all of their lessons in each subject until that exam has been completed. Staff will be putting on targeted revision sessions in these lessons that will focus on the key skills needed for exam success in order to ensure that they are high impact.

I am sure that all students have plenty of revision materials to be using at home, but I would recommend that they utilise the PIXL resources which have been shared with them to further support their revision. The log on details for these are below:
